Why Pickup Truck Inventory Is Rapidly Declining

Fall 2019

UAW strike affects the production of some GM pickups in 2019

March 2020

Most North American automotive manufacturing production stops due to COVID-19

April 2020

Pickup trucks sales break records outselling sedans for the first time ever because of generous incentives and 0% interest loans

May 2020

Automakers haven't produced new product in many weeks. Some manufacturing restart dates pushed back. Incentives stay on the table for new pickup truck sales

Summer 2020

Stock expected to continue to be depleted

Fall 2020

Available pickup truck inventory projected to be very low

The Bottom Line- Your perfect work truck may not be ready when you are.
